Research team discovers two new antlion species in State

A team from SERL, attached to Christ College, Irinjalakuda, identifies Nemoleon ghoshi in the forest areas of Kasaragod and Idukki districts, and Nemoleon madayiensis in Kannur district

Mini Muringatheri THRISSUR

cientists have discovered two new antlion species of the Myrmeleontidae family of order Neuroptera from Kerala.

A research team of Shadpada Entomology Research Lab (SERL), Christ Irinjalakuda, College, Thrissur, is behind the discovery.

One of the species has been discovered in the forest area of Ranipuram in the Kasaragod district and Vallakadavu and Marayoor in the Idukki district. The species has been named Nemoleon ghoshi in honour of Dr. Sanath Kumar Ghosh, former scientist of the Zoological Survey of India for his expertise and excellence in the field of Indian neuropterology.

Another new antlion species has been discovered at Madayippara near the famous Madayi Kavu in Kannur district. The new species has been named Nemoleon madayiensis in reference to the distinct biological diversity of the region.

The findings have been

New finds: Nemoleon madayiensis and Nemoleon ghoshi

published in the recent issue of international scientific journal Zootaxa. Docscholar Suryanarayanan T. B; research supervisor and Assistant Professor of Christ College Dr. Bijoy C.; and Hungarian scientist Dr. Levente Ábrahám were part of the research team.

Adults of antlions are misidentified as damselflies by non-taxonomists because of their morphological resemblance. Antlions can be easily distinguished by their long distinct antennae. They come under Order Neuroptera, which includes holometabolous insects while the damselflies come under order Odonata which includes hemimetabolous insects, says Dr. Bi-

Antlions are commonly known for their pit-building habit. Larval stages of only some antlion genera construct the conical pits in loose dry soil as their predation strategy. Larvae of Nemoleon do not build pits, live under the surface in loose soils where they are protected from direct sunlight, wind and rain. The genus Nemoleon is reported for the first time from oriental region. This is the 5th and 6th antlion species reported from Kerala and 125th and 126th species from India, he noted.

The research was conducted with financial assistance from the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR), New Delhi. The Shadpada Entomology Research Lab (SERL) at Christ College has a special emphasis on researching such organisms.

State's tourism activities on track: Minister

The Hindu Bureau THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Tourism activities across the State are moving ahead safely and normally with all events, including the latest edition of Champions Boat League (CBL), taking place as per schedule, marking the commencement of the high inbound season, Tourism Minister P.A. Mohamed Riyas said on Sunday.

The situation is well under control in a few pockets of Kozhikode district from where some cases of Nipah virus infection were reported, thanks to the coordinated and foolproof containment measures taken on a war footing, the Minister said. Mr. Riyas, who is camping in Kozhikode, his home turf, to closely monitor the situation along with Health Minister Veena George, said there is no room for worry on this count.

Right track

Tourism Department officials are in close touch with the travel and hospitality industry and service providers and the feedback is that all tourism activities are on track as planned, he said. In the affected area the government has mobilised the medical community and the health infrastructure in full strength.

NIT-C puts off exams, classes to go online

The Hindu Bureau

The National Institute of Technology Calicut (NIT-C) has postponed examinations scheduled over the week and has decided to conduct all classes online in the backdrop of Nipahrelated restrictions issued by the district administration. The decision comes in the wake of a complaint from a student body to the District Collector that restrictions were not being followed in the campus.

The NIT-C is located in Chathamangalam chayat in Kozhikode, which was the epicentre of the Nipah outbreak in 2021.
